This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

Public Affairs Information Service offers its sixth annual cumulation with a feeling that some real progress has been made during the past year.

The removal of the Editorial Office from The H. W. Wilson Company to the Economics Division of the New York Public Library has opened up many possibilities of extending the field of the Service, most of which have been impossible of accomplishment during the first year. The opportunities offered by this contact with a large reference library were not overestimated by the Committee in setting forth the advantages of the plan. Through the courtesy of the Library, incoming books, pamphlets and documents are examined each day so that everything which falls within the scope of the P. A. I. S. is immediately available. There are also available for regular examination many economic and trade periodicals not elsewhere indexed. This system makes for more prompt service and also affords opportunity for more discriminating selection than was possible when time and money were consumed in acquiring the material. Less obvious, but no less substantial, benefits of the library contact are the availability of reference books and catalogs, the close association with actual users of the Bulletin, and the almost unlimited opportunities for keeping informed of new topics of interest.

Some new features introduced during the year may be summarized as follows:

(1) The introduction in the Bulletins of certain subheads under countries and under the political subdivisions of the United States, viz: Army, Census, Commerce, Constitution, Diplomatic and Consular Service (U. S. only), Economic conditions, Finance, Foreign Relations, Government and Politics, Maps, Natural Resources, Navy, Social Conditions, Statistics. Material on all other subjects, even though it relates to a particular country or political unit, is grouped under subject as formerly. Thus a book on the railroads of China will be found under Railroads, Foreign, without geographical subdivision. To make more easily available all the material relating to countries, states, etc., references are made from each of these political divisions to all the subjects under which material relating to them is to be found.

(2) References to well known indexes which cover in part, particularly for periodical literature, many of the subjects included in the P. A. I. S. In making an exhaustive search for material on a given subject, it has been necessary heretofore for the user of the P. A. I. S. to keep in mind the other indexes which ought to be consulted for additional references. Such indexes have grown so numerous that it has seemed a proper function for the P. A. I.S. to fill the need for an "index to indexes." Accordingly, about 300 references have been made in this volume to the more important subjects found in indexes such as the following: Agricultural Index, Engineering Index, Index to Legal Periodicals, Index Medicus, Industrial Arts Index, International Military Digest, Monthly List of Educational Publications, Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature, Technical Review.

(3) The establishment of a research department to handle inquiries for bibliographical, statistical and other kinds of investigations, involving more extended research than is possible for the Editorial Staff to undertake. An important feature of the service of this department is the furnishing of photostat copies of material listed in the bulletin and not easily accessible to members in its original form.

(4) The publication of an index to important state legislation of 1920, issued as a special bulletin under date of September 25, and incorporated in this volume. This is not an entirely new feature but a revival of the Index to legislation first issued in 1917. For the past two years it has not been practicable for various reasons to publish such an index, and its preparation this year was made possible only by the generous assistance of co-operators in touch with the legislative situation in the states represented. It is hoped that it may be continued as a regular part of the Service.

The P. A. I. S. is not a periodical index nor is it a digest, although it is sometimes evaluated by tests that apply exclusively to one or the other of these two classes of reference tools. It covers the fairly definite range of topics suggested by the term "Public Affairs," but it does not confine itself to any one class of publications. References are made to documents, books, pamphlets, newspapers and even manuscript and unpublished material appearing, in English, in foreign countries as well as in the United States. The term public affairs is not narrowly interpreted, although the subjects to which most space is given relate necessarily to economic, industrial, social and political problems. An example of the broad interpretation of the field is the amount of space given in this volume to business and financial topics. Banks and banking, Credit, Finance, Foreign commerce, Foreign investments, Merchant marine, Ports, Public debts, Shipping, Terminals and Transportation are a few of the more important headings used. Commercial, financial and economic conditions in various countries are fully treated under geographical headings. Under the general heading Industry, reference is made to fifty-six specific industries to be found in their alphabetical place as main headings. Information relating to prices of more than one hundred commodities may be found by referring to the names of commodities enumerated under the heading Prices.

By classifying the material under carefully selected headings and subheads, and by the addition of contents notes and occasional short descriptive notes, P. A. I. S. tries to meet the need of the research worker for quick and efficient guidance to the best sources of information.

Under the new formal agreement between the Publication Committee and the H. W. Wilson Company the latter continues to print and distribute the bulletins.

This report was transmitted by President Wilson to the Senate on April 3. The newspaper references on the following day implied that it had been published. Churchand social problems—Conferences—Cont.
The World survey conference of the Interchurch world movement of North America took place in Atlantic City, Jan. 7-10, inclusive. The conference considered the results of the great home and foreign surveys of religious conditions conducted by the Interchurch movement and passed on the budget proposed for the co-operating boards and denominations to carry on the work which these surveys show ought to be done in the next five years. Over a thousand prominent religious leaders from all parts of the country attended. They came from about twenty-five different evangelical denominations. Czecho-Slovak government has decided to substitute a state coal-trade monopoly for the coal tax. The state will keep an exact register of the coal produced, so that it will be able to fix precisely the quotas for the individual groups of consumers and the amount available for export. Owing to the depreciation of Czecho-Slovak currency, the export price will be very high and the difference between this and the price on the home market is to be retained by the state. Periodicals
"The Freeman" is a new weekly published at 32 W. 58th st, N.Y., Mr B. W. Huebsch is president of the company. The first issue is dated March 17, 1920. The price is $6 a year. The following paragraph is quoted from the first issue:
"The Freeman is planned to meet the new sense of responsibility and the new spirit of inquiry which recent events have liberated, especially in the field of economics and politics. It will follow developments in all phases of international life, and its point of view in the discussion of industry and commerce will be that of fundamental economics. In dealing with public affairs, it will concern itself more with the principles of politics than with political events, personalities or superficial issues; and especially with the economic principles that underlie politics."
The Political Review: a survey of political affairs in all countries, the contents of which are quite fully analyzed in this volume, has for financial reasons been merged with the Economic Review. In effect, however, this practically means that the Political Review has been abandoned. These two reviews represented a non-commercial enterprise designed to continue the valuable service performed by the Supplements to the Review of the Foreign Press, published by the British foreign office during the war. The general lack of digests and translations of significant information appearing in the European press made these periodicals of exceptional value for American libraries. The P.A.I.S. believes that the enterprise is so entirely worthy of support that it urges the members to write for sample copies and, if possible, to become regular subscribers to the Economic Review. • Terminal ports assn. Need for a public committee on transportation. 1 sheet '19 141 Broadway, N.Y.
The Terminal ports association has undertaken the organization of a Public committee on transportation for New York. From the distribution of a handbill on Dec. 8, 1919, urging the city administration to nominate representatives for this committee there have been selected and accepted 25 of the suggested 67 aldermanic representative members. Pending the further selection of members a bulletin has been started as of the Public Committee on Transportation. No. 1 appeared Jan. 8, 1920, from Room 711, 141 Broadway, N.Y. The function of the committee seems likely to be rather auxiliary than executive, as the Board of estimate declined to nominate members of the new organization's executive committee, expressing the opinion that the board should act directly in the investigation of the city transportation companies.

In a pamphlet entitled 'Why business organizations should be class "A" members', the National association of corporation schools, Room 834, Irving Place and 15th st, announces its enlarged program, as follows: "With seven years of experience as a basis for determining the Association's final form of organization, an enlarged program has been agreed upon and is now being made effective by the Executive committee. This program includes the establishment of an industrial and commercial institute, comparable to the best technical institutes. The industrial and commercial institute will confine its activities wholly to research effort, studying personnel problems and developing standards as the basis for industrial and commercial training, scientific employing, labor turnover, employe representation in management, health of the workers, profit-sharing and allied thrift activities and all other plans and systems which may be utilized in securing cooperative effort on the part of stockholders, management and the workers. An efficient corps of instructors will be installed to train those who desire to enter industrial or commercial organizations as directors of training, employment managers, safety directors and similar personnel activities. The purpose of the Industrial and commercial institute will be to serve the industrial and commercial organizations of the United States in a scientific solution of personnel problems as technical institutions serve in the solution of engineering and other technical problems."

World's food resources. O. D. von Engeln. Geographical R 9:170-90 Mr '20

"The immediate prompting for this article was the publication recently of a book of the same title by Professor J. Russell Smith. These paragraphs do not, however, purport to conform to the usual book review, nor are they intended as a criticism of that volume. Rather it is proposed to suggest some considerations, having a bearing on the problem of the world's present and future food supply, that the writer thinks need to be taken into account before one may accept in toto the roseate future that Dr Smith paints."

"Shop council" plan covers the entire clothing industry. R. S. Baker. N Y Evening Post F 14 '20

Hart Schaffner & Marx thru an agreement with employees of nine years standing, has tested a plan of industrial representation which has been successful with 7000 workmen thru the war and subsequent unsettled labor conditions. It is in its essence a shop councils system with two additional features. One is the principle of continuous negotiation, with an agreement never to let a difference of opinion reach the point of strike. The "trade board" is in session every day and any trouble that may arise is instantly dealt with. The other important feature is the "impartial chairman," who is an outsider chosen to preside over the board and decide when a deadlock occurs between the five workers and five members. This arrangement has worked so well that it has spread until it covers practically the entire clothing industry in America.

Associations

" 'Clarté' is a league of intellectual solidarity for the triumph of internationalism. It does not intend to be a political party, but to be a living force for the realisation of a living ideal. . . . [It] aims on the one hand at the suppression of political and economic frontiers: on the other hand at the suppression of economic, social and political inequalities and all class distinctions. It stands for social equality of all citizens, men and women alike, in a community in which there is only one class, that of workers with hand or brain. It does not seek to supplant the socialist and labour parties, the trade unions, or any organization already working for similar aims. 'Clarté' is an International of Ideas working with and for the International of Labour."

"During a century Ireland had striven for constitutional home rule, yet in 1914 she deliberately turned her back on that policy. Mr Dawson shows that this was not due to a whim or dissatisfaction at the suspension of the home rule act, but the result of the revolutionary movement under a new form. He brings out many startling facts of the alliance between Sinn Fein and Germany, and of the Irish revolutionaries with the Bolsheviki of Russia and Great Britain. The book is all the more valuable in that the author has relied upon the written and spoken words of the revolutionary leaders for his argument, and has studiously refrained from indulging in speculative theories of his own."

Labor turnover

Chicago council, Industrial relations association of America, at its meeting on March 1, 1920 discussed recommendations to overcome present evils of newspaper advertising for labor. The chief recommendations were: not to use display type in classified advertisements; not to mention salaries therein; not to use more than a total of 45 agate lines per day in any issue of any paper. It was felt that a reduction of advertising would help to reduce unrest among the present employees of the various industries and therefore reduce to a minimum the "shopping" for jobs which is aggravated by present advertising methods. The council voted to adopt the recommendations and take action to put them into effect.

Important classes of agricultural products, both staple and perishable will be covered. The information will be given in leading articles, comprehensive weekly and monthly summaries of movement, marketing and prices of specified commodities, and tabulated statistics with interpretative text.

Securities

A Bankers committee on ship securities has been appointed by the United States shipping board for the purpose of studying the financial aspects of the American shipping situation and reporting on the best means of establishing a broad market for steamship securities. The executive secretary, Mr John E. Barber, Harris Forbes & co.,

New York city, briefly explains the situation confronting the committee in the following language:
"Upon completion of the present construction program the Shipping board will own some nineteen hundred ships built at an aggregate cost of over two billion and a half dollars, which it is proposed by the government shall be sold to private ownership and operation. To finance this sale of the government ships recourse must be had to private capital, and as the larger and older steamship companies can only absorb from funds now on hand and credit open to them about one-third of the government ships, a number of new shipping companies will have to be established which will have resort to public funds if their requirements are to be met." Massachusetts—Act to provide for the revision of minimum wage decrees. (Ch. 387, Acts 1920)

Massachusetts has merged her minimum wage commission, with five other boards, bureaus and offices, into a state Department of labor and industries, created by the Consolidation act of 1919. In the new form of organization, effective December 1, 1919, the title Minimum wage board is changed to Division of minimum wage, Department of labor and industries. The former commissioners are replaced by three departmental associate commissioners, who act jointly for this division and for the board of conciliation and arbitration, officially under the name of the latter. They are still called "the commission," however, when functioning in minimum wage matters. The departmental office of assistant commissioner was created, and this officer is at present in charge of the minimum wage work.

Governors' messages, 1920

Oregon—Gov. Olcott recommends amending the parole law so that its operation will be suspended and that it will cease to function entirely in cases where conviction has been had on charges of homicide in any degree; robbery of any kind; rape, where violence is an element of the crime; burglary, when armed with a dangerous weapon, and assault with intent to kill while being armed with a dangerous weapon. He also feels that the parole should not be granted in other cases until the prisoner has served at least one-half the time of the maximum sentence, instead of one-fourth as at present.

"The Freeman" is a new weekly published at 32 W. 58th st, N. Y. Mr B. W. Huebsch is president of the company. The first issue is dated March 17, 1920. The price is $6 a year. The following paragraph is quoted from the first issue:

"The Freeman" is planned to meet the new sense of responsibility and the new spirit of inquiry which recent events have liberated, especially in the field of economics and politics. It will follow developments in all phases of international life, and its point of view in the discussion of industry and commerce will be that of fundamental economics. In dealing with public affairs, it will concern itself more with the principles of politics than with political events, personalities or superficial issues; and especially with the economic principles that underlie politics."

Governors' messages, 1920

Massachusetts—Gov. Coolidge recommends measures to conserve public health, especially thru education in health matters in the public schools.

Mississippi—Gov. Bilbo urges an increased state appropriation for public health work.

New York (state)—Gov. Smith recommends liberal support for the state department of health. He states that the time has come for some plan of reorganization of health administration within the counties under the supervision of state health authorities to insure better medical facilities in rural districts. He believes that the whole state should be redistricted, so that each community could support proper public health administration.

Likewise, all the Slavs were put in one group although there exist well recognized differences among them; and the Germans include natives of Austria as well as of Germany."

Scientific research

Announcement has been made of the organization of a National bureau of economic research, incorporated, "to meet the growing demand for exact and impartial determinations of those facts which bear upon economic, social and industrial problems. The initial investigations of the bureau are expected to deal with the distribution of income in the United States among individuals and by basic sources, wages and other returns for personal service, interest, land rents, and profits in excess of a normal interest rate." The Board of directors, so far as announced, includes several well known economists. Nine national organizations have been requested to nominate one director each, which nominations will be subject to confirmation by the ten directors already chosen. The president of the bureau is Edwin F. Gay; the director of research, Dr Wesley C. Mitchell. The address is 175 9th av, N.Y.

Periodicals

"The Family" is a new periodical devoted to the interests of family social workers, published as the official organ of the American association for organizing family social work. The first issue is that of February, 1920. It will be issued monthly ten times a year. The subscription price is $1.50 for a "standard" subscriber, $3 for a "full" subscriber, $5 for a "contributing subscriber, and $10 for a "patron" subscriber. The purpose of the periodical, as announced, is to improve the standards and methods of social work with families. It will appeal especially to social workers, including case workers, secretaries, etc. as well as to the intelligent and interested lay public.

The Houston foundation, created by an ordinance of the city of Houston in 1915 and charged with the duty of studying the community needs of Houston, began in May, 1919, the publication of a monthly review, entitled The Community; a review of philanthropic thought and social effort. The object of the publication is to furnish a medium for communicating the results of the studies, surveys, and bulletins of the foundation itself, and to report the work being done in other cities. The Houston foundation, it should be noted, is somewhat broader in its scope than the community trusts in other cities.

More than 100 representatives of American business firms organized the American commercial association to promote trade with Russia, on Feb. 2, 1920 and directed its executive committee to start mandamus proceedings in the federal courts if Secretary of state Robert Lansing continued to refuse permission for a resumption of commerce. The Metropolitan life insurance company has begun to publish a monthly statistical bulletin similar to the bulletins of state and city health departments. Its aim is "to portray the current vital statistics of the company's membership." "These bulletins will serve to point out what the current conditions of life and health are throughout the United States and Canada as shown by the latest tabulation of the death certificates received by the company." 1 Madison av, N.Y.

Monthly Vital Statistics Review is a new bulletin to be issued, beginning with March, 1920, in place of the Monthly Vital Statistics number of the Official Bulletin published by the New York state department of health. The new publication contains a more elaborate report of the state's vital statistics than has been published heretofore. It is prepared especially for the practical use of health officers and registrars, public health nurses, social workers, physicians, and other public officials.

This report is a compendium of data relating to the water-power resources of British Columbia. The opening chapters comprise a statement of the guiding principles which should govern in the conservation and utilization of inland waters, and a description of certain important features which should characterise reliable water-power data. There follows a comprehensive historical survey of water legislation in the province, together with discussions of subjects cognate thereto. In the portion of the report which relates more particularly to physical data, will be found tabular lists of the estimated possibilities of water-power sites throughout the province, which lists are based chiefly upon results obtained from the special field investigations conducted by the Commission of conservation. There then follow digests of stream-flow, meteorological and other hydrometric records.
